REPORTS BY COMMITTEES

RAPPORTS DES COMITÉS

Mrs. Jeffrey from the Standing Committee on General Government presented the Committee's Report which was read as follows and adopted:-

M^{me} Jeffrey du Comité permanent des affaires gouvernementales présente le rapport du comité qui est lu comme suit et adopté:-

Your Committee begs to report the following Bill as amended:-

Votre comité propose qu'il soit permis de faire rapport sur le projet de loi suivant avec des amendements:-

Bill 3, An Act to protect anaphylactic students, the title of which is amended to read "An Act to protect anaphylactic pupils. Ordered for Third Reading.

Projet de loi 3, Loi visant à protéger les élèves anaphylactiques, dont le titre est modifié comme suit «Loi visant à protéger les élèves anaphylactiques». Ordonné pour la troisième lecture.

The Speaker delivered the following ruling:-

On May 4, 2005, the Member for Barrie-Simcoe-Bradford (Mr. Tascona) rose on a question of privilege concerning a list of intended appointments to yet-to-be-created government bodies known as Local Health Integration Networks. This list was recently submitted to the Standing Committee on Government Agencies. According to the Member, the government was in contempt of the House for presupposing the passage of enabling legislation when it advertised publicly for persons to be appointed to the Networks, and when it then went ahead and hired people as if the Networks were a fait accompli. The Member for Niagara Centre (Mr. Kormos), the Government House Leader (Mr. Duncan), and the Member for Erie-Lincoln (Mr. Hudak) also spoke to this matter.

Having had an opportunity to review the relevant precedents and authorities, I will now address the points that were raised by the Member for Barrie-Simcoe-Bradford. The Member indicated that government advertisements presupposed that enabling legislation would pass. Additionally, the Member indicated that the government's submission of the list of the intended appointments to the Standing Committee on Government Agencies presupposes the existence of enabling legislation because the outcome of the hiring process was based on the incorrect premise that the legislative or regulatory framework existed.

Let me say at the outset that I do not interpret the referenced statements, seen in context, as undermining the authority of the House or its legislative function: the statements are rather innocuous, they make no connection to a bill before the House, they do not presume the existence of a specific legislative or regulatory regime, and they must be balanced with the other statements on the government's website that make specific mention of the government's intention to introduce enabling legislation. For example, the May 2, 2005 "Bulletin 11" document mentioned by the Member indicates that the government "intends to introduce legislation" to effect the requisite changes, and that "[l]egislation will be needed to enable [the Networks] to perform certain functions that are envisioned for [them]...." The use of the words "intends", "legislation will be needed", and "envisioned" suggests that the government was aware of and showing consideration for the legislative function of the Assembly.

As to the issue of the appointments themselves, it must be noted that Speakers of this Assembly have not found fault with broadly similar intended appointments to bodies that have yet to be created. In this regard, I refer to the following precedents:

- In 1997, Speaker Stockwell ruled that it was not a matter of privilege or contempt that the government had sent to the Standing Committee on Government Agencies a notice of an intended appointment to the Education Improvement Commission in circumstances where the bill creating the Commission was still before the House. That ruling can be found at page 6577 of the Hansard for January 29, 1997.
- In 2000, Speaker Carr ruled that a prima facie case of privilege was not established in circumstances where the government's Public Appointments Secretariat was recruiting appointments to the Post-secondary Education Quality Assessment Board, despite the fact that the bill creating that body was still before the House. Speaker Carr stated that "various Speakers have made it clear that the public service has a responsibility to prepare itself and stand in readiness for the possible passage of legislation." He found the circumstances to be an exercise of "due diligence on the part of the public service in preparation for pending legislation." That ruling can be found at pages 5799 and 5800 of the Hansard for November 27, 2000.
- In 2002, Speaker Carr had to deal with a situation where a proposed university or the government had created a website and hired university staff in circumstances where the legal existence of the university was contingent on the passage of a bill that was currently before the House. In ruling that a prima facie case of contempt was not established, Speaker Carr found that it had not been shown that the impugned actions were something other than planning for the proposed university. According to Speaker Carr, the hiring of staff and the creation of a website did not suggest contempt. That ruling can be found at page 549 of the Hansard for June 3, 2002.

For these reasons, I find that a prima facie case of contempt has not been established.

This leaves one final matter for consideration. According to the Member for Barrie-Simcoe-Bradford, the Standing Committee on Government Agencies has no jurisdiction to consider the appointments to the Networks because of the absence of enabling legislation. I have given careful thought to this jurisdictional issue, and although it is really a matter of order on a potential item of business before a forthcoming meeting of the standing committee, in view of the fact that today is the deadline to select intended appointments for review, I will rule on the matter. In this regard, I note that at page 6577 of the above-mentioned January 29, 1997 ruling dealing with intended appointments to the Education Improvement Commission, Speaker Stockwell stated the following:

I find nothing in the referral of a certificate of intent to appoint these two candidates which would in any way limit or compromise the ability or rights of a committee to conduct a review under the terms of the standing orders.

The fact that the appointments are contingent on the passage of legislation does not impact on the committee's review. I want to note here that this is not the first time the committee has reviewed an intended appointee prior to passage of legislation which establishes the agency, board or commission.

In 1991 the committee reviewed and concurred in the intended appointment of the Employment Equity Commissioner. Some members who were here during that period of time may recall that the legislation that provided for the Employment Equity Commissioner was not passed in this Legislature until 1994, but the appointment took place in 1991.

In closing, I would like to thank the Member for Barrie-Simcoe-Bradford for raising these matters, and the Member for Niagara Centre, the Government House Leader, and the Member for Erie-Lincoln for their helpful submissions.

Following remarks by Mr. McGuinty, Mrs. Witmer and Mr. Hampton, with unanimous consent, the House observed a moment of silence in remembrance of those Canadian veterans who lost their lives fighting for the liberation of Europe.
